RECEPTION TO LORIN PASTOR.

Park Congregation Extends a Welcome to Rev. S. G. Arnett.

An Extended and Interesting Program in Which Many Participate.

Park Congregational Church of Lorin was the scene of a happy gathering last evening, the occasion being a reception to Rev. S. G. Arnett, who was recently called to the church as pastor. At the supper the addresses of welcome were made by Rev. E. Lyman Hood, the former pastor of the church; Rev. Geo. J. Schulz of the Paradise German M. E. Church; Mrs. Spuller in behalf of the Ladies Aid Society of the Church; L. S. Rodgers for the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor; and Rev. Mr. Edsen of the Golden Gate M. E. Church.

Rev. Mr. Arnett responded in a fitting manner, and it was very evident from the tenor of all the addresses that the most cordial and reciprocal feelings have already been established between the new pastor and his congregation.

Singing, playing of games, etc., by the young people formed the balance of the evening's enjoyment.

THE MORCOMS ARE GRATEFUL.

Extend Thanks for Assistance Rendered Them.

Mr. and Mrs. Morcom who lost their son by drowning Saturday have requested the insertion of the following card of thanks:

Allow us to extend our thanks to Mr. Rawson, Mr. Rogers and Mr. A. Larson, to the GAZETTE and also to all the citizens and friends of West Berkeley, for their kindness in assisting us in our affliction, the death of our only son, Harry Morcom. Should we be called to foreign parts we shall always remember our friends at West Berkeley.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN MORCOM.

For the Klondike.

Capt. William J. Ross of Boston, who is stopping with his stepson, Geo. E. Pigeon of Telegraph avenue and Oregon street, is an old sea captain and a man who has made a special study of the Klondike region. The two gentlemen above named are waiting the arrival of Mrs. Pigeon's brother, J. M. Toole of New York, and upon his arrival all three will depart for the Klondike, via Chilkoot Pass.

New prices. To close them out quickly we have gone through the entire stock and reduced the prices on all goods. Bargains for all at the bankrupt sale of Hanly's stock, corner Eleventh and Washington streets, Oakland. J. P. Gilman, agent for creditors.

SHALL THE CITY BE BONDED?

Suggestions and Opinions as to the Proposed New Schools.

Interviews With Citizens Regarding an Important Measure.

Commencing with Tuesday's issue the GAZETTE is daily publishing a column of interviews and opinions on the advisability of bonding the City for $75,000 for the erection of a new High and a Grammar school and the purchase of land therefor.

Daniel Madden—I favor bonding the city for the reason that we must have more schools.

George Schmidt—No bonds for me. When the Bancroft and Dwight way schools were built the Board of Education gave us to understand that no more schools would be needed for at least five years; yet here they are again.

M. J. Murphy—I am going to vote against the bonds.

F. V. Baer—We want more schools, and I am in favor of bonding the city.

W. R. Wright—Issue bonds if necessary. We must have more schools.

W. W. Lingard—I haven't given the matter much thought, but if we need more schools we might as well take steps to get them.

H. Hartkop—If we must have more schools let us raise the money by a special tax. I will vote against bonds.

Joseph Rose—No bonds for me. I believe in schools, but the necessary money should be raised by a special tax.

R. A. Curry—I am in favor of the bonding proposition.

C. Mikkelsen—Of course we want a new High school, and I will vote in favor of it.

J. C. Berry—Berkeley is the educational center of the Pacific coast, and we want facilities which will aid in maintaining that reputation. By all means bond the city.

C. R. Lord—If I am assured that the money will be economically expended I will gladly vote aye.

T. G. Brotherton—I would like to see the city bonded for enough money to give us everything we need.

J. M. Doyle—I am in favor of raising the necessary money by a direct tax. I am not in favor of leaving the determination of what we do need to irresponsible parties. I am also in favor of calling a mass meeting to find out what we want and then getting it and paying for it.

Dr. John U. Oberg—I am opposed to bonds on general principles, but not to the paying of taxes, although I think there is too much extravagance in the employment of useless officials.

Ex-Justice Penwell—We need a High school and therefore I am in favor of bonds.

Wm. Davis—What is the use of bonding the city for the erection of new school buildings when there is no protection for those already built. Settle the water question and equip the fire department before spending any more money on schools.

Frank O'Brien—I think taxes are too high already. I am against bonding.

Chas. Hadlen—I am opposed to bonding for a High school at present, because the burden will be two great on the taxpayers.

John Vasey—Give us plenty of water and a better fire department now, and talk about bonds afterward.

Paul Nichelmann—The water question is paramount. For that reason I am opposed to school bonds at present.

P. A. Unda—As I am not a taxpayer I am not opposed to the bonds.

A. W. Naylor—I am in favor of the bonds. The new High school should be located on the present site, which has the advantage of being the closest to the University of any in the State.

Captain John T. Morrison—Let us bond the city for the money and leave its expenditure to those whom we have elected for the purpose.

THE FIRST ANNUAL DEBATE.

Law Students Defeat Their Berkeley Colleagues.

The first annual debate between the Student's Congress of the University of California and the Hastings Debating Society, held last evening at Stiles Hall before a large audience, resulted in a victory for the law college debaters, who argued in favor of the adoption of the Referendum.

The question for debate was: "Resolved, That the revenue of the United States Government should be raised exclusively by a tax on land values."

The affimative was taken by the Hastings Debating Society, which was represented by L. M. Crowell, Edward Lee Payne and Charles C. Cohn. The Students' Congress was represented by J. Milton Mannon, Charles M. Bufford and Charles E. Thomas, who argued for the negative.

Special to the Gazette.

Rome, Jan. 22.—The Italian Government has decided to profit by the example of Germany and will collect indemnity from Hayti at the cannon's mouth. A war ship is about to sail for the little Haytian republic to enforce compensation for the violent treatment of Italian citizens.

RANSOME MAY NOT PLAY.

Difficulties Which May Keep Him Off Yales Team.

There is some doubt as to whether Ransome will be able to play this year with Yale. It is charged that he is a professional, inasmuch as he received money to play with Orange. Ransome claims he merely received his expenses. Consequently he kept within amateur requirements.

Ransome's term at Yale, however, will be up in the spring. It appears that, having graduated at the head of his class at the University of California, he received a scholarship which entitled him to one year's course at New Haven, and for that reason he was a Yale student last fall. Under the one-year's residence rule he could not become a candidate for the Yale varsity football team, and therefore was snapped up by Coyne of Orange, who had seen him play on the Coast.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MARY AMES.

Her Last Wishes Were Carried Out.

The funeral services of Mrs. Mary E. H. Ames were held this afternoon from the Park Congregational church at Lorin.

Rev. E. Lyman Hood, former pastor, and Rev. S. G. Arnett, the present pastor of the church, officiated, in accordance with the dying request of Mrs. Ames, and the old choir of the church also sang in response to her wishes.

There was a large attendance of friends. The interment was in Mountain View Cemetery.

A Cuban Crisis.

Washington, Jan. 22—The fact that the Senate was in session today caused a good deal of comment and soon there were rumors of a most sensational character in circulation. This session is the first one held on Saturday since the opening of Congress. It is believed a crisis is imminent in Cuban affairs.

SHE DANCED AT BURNETT'S INAUGURAL.

The Last Survivor of the Social Event of Early Days.

Mrs. Loretta Dolores Green Dies At Her Son's Residence.

Mrs. Loretta Dolores, wife of Alfred A. Green, died this morning at the residence of her son, Alfred T. Green, on Woolsey street, below King, Lorin. The cause of death was lung trouble.

The deceased came to Berkeley a short time ago on a visit to her son, from Stanislaus county. Her death removes the last of the ladies who attended the inaugural ball of Governor Peter Burnett.

Mrs. Green was a native of Mexico, aged sixty-four years. Her husband and four children, namely, Alfred T. Green, Mrs. Samuel Shear, Mrs. W. J. O'Brien and Mrs. W. G. Hensley, survive her.

Mrs. Green is a California pioneer having lived here about fifty years.

The body will be taken to San Francisco for burial.

JOE LEGGETT ELECTED SENIOR PRESIDENT.

A Most Spirited Contest and the Vote Comparatively Close.

Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen Also Elect Their Officers.

The election for President of the the Senior class of the University yesterday was a spirited one. Joseph W. Leggett was the successful candidate, defeating Hartley F. Peart by a vote of 94 to 74. Mr. Leggett is one of the most prominent men in College. He is a regular student in the College of Letters, and also the correspondent of the San Francisco Call. He is connected with the editorial stoff of the Occident and is a member of the Executive Committee of the Associated Students.

The other officers of the class were previously elected.

The junior class of the University nominated the following officers: Captain, Percy W. Hall; first vice-president, Miss E. Rothenell; second vice-president, J. L. Mannon, J. McPherson and H. W. Crozier; secretary, Miss J. Abrahams; treasurer, W. McCloud; sergeant-at-arms, F. J. Greisberg, N. A. Eckart, C. J. Houston; executive committee, Misses Florence Mason, L. R. Nash and R. Armstrong, and L. F. Scott, C. E. Thomas, R. L. Logan, Earle Swan, Reno Hutceinson and S. Abraham. The election will be held next week.

The sophomores elected their officers as follows: President, Fred Dorety; first vice-president, Jack Hoffman; second vice-president, Miss C. Henley; secretary, Robert Belcher; treasurer, Dick Hazeltine; assistant treasurer, Miss L. McCauly; sergeant-at-arms, L. S. O'Toole; track captain, W. P. Drum.

The Freshmen nominated C. D. Cobb and J. L. Goldsmith for president. The remaining offices were filled as follows: First vice-president, Miss R. R. Morse; Second vice-president, Miss R. Cullen; secretary, M. H. Schwartz; treasurer Miss F. Barnard; sergeant-at-arms, N. G. Gulberson; executive committee, L. H. Harvery, J. A. Morgan, Miss E. T. Owen, E. M. Hecht and R. W. Tully.

MONDAY A HOLIDAY.

There will be no issue of the GAZETTE on Monday, which is a legal holiday.

AN INADVERTANT OMISSION.

The article which appeared in these columns yesterday regarding the Allsip case should have been credited to the Oakland Enquirer.

IS PROBABLY FORTUNATE.

The man who is lamenting what he considers his misfortune in not having sufficient money to take him to the Klondike will probably consider himself exceedingly lucky, when the thousands of disappointed treasure hunters commence their return march to civilization next fall.

THE PEOPLE'S OPINION.

From present indications the coming school bond election will result in the success of the movement, if the Board of Education selects a High School site satisfactory to the voters, otherwise the issue of the campaign is extremely doubtful. The GAZETTE's plan of publishing the opinion of every voter who can be interviewed, in regard to the proposition, was adopted in the hope that the drift of public sentiment could be ascertained so that the Board of Education will be guided in its efforts to give the people what they want. We are glad to state that the plan is meeting with success and our citizens are eagerly availing themselves of the opportunity. As a result there should be a perfect understanding of the all important situation.

THE SCHOOL BONDS.

EDITOR GAZETTE: Will you kindly grant some of your valuable space to an old resident and small tax payer so that he may state his opinion on the all important question of "Better School Facilities for Berkeley." This is a question that should be well considered by every voter of Berkeley so that he may act wisely toward himself and the next generation. I will say right here that I am opposed to bonds on general principles.

For these reasons: First, under ordinary circumstances we get $10 worth of school and $15 or $20 worth of interest; for the reason that we are never able to pay off the bonds when they become due. Look up the history of the School Bonds of Oakland, or you don't need to go so far away. You can find that Berkeley is paying a small amount on School Bonds that were floated for the three houses that were built a few years ago.

Second, I think that it is wrong for us to put a debt on our children. Our fathers had to pay for our education. Why should we crawfish and leave our children to pay for their own education, when they will have children of their own to educate? Pay as you go and you will live longer and be happier.

Now for the High School. I for one want to see the Board of Education put on record as to whether they will put the High School where the old one stands or not; and then have it specified in the Election Proclamation where the new High School building would stand in case the Bonds are carried.

Why not move the Kellogg school so as to front on Allston way and put in new plumbing and plaster it, and put on a new roof which can be done for about $3500 and then it is as good as new, and you have a Grammar school right where it is wanted, and there is plenty of room for the High school on Center street until you want to build on to it for more room, which will not be wanted for eight or ten years.

I think that if they agree to put the building on the present site the bonds will carry; if they don't do so, or propose to put it any place else, there will be no new High school yet awhile. Since we voted on bonds the last time I have talked to a good many voters, and almost to a man they said that if they did not know before hand that the building would be put on the present site they would vote against the bonds. Voters, make the Board of Education say where they will put the building before you give them the money to build with! CITIZEN.

W. C. T. U. DEPARTMENT.

[This department is edited by the W. C. T. U.]

In Indiana, some time ago, "they say," a man got a license and opened a saloon. The people of the village met and resolved to have nothing to do with him. They would sell him nothing, they would not notice him on the street; in fact, they disregarded him in every way. When he went to a store the merchant would ask:

"Are you the man that sells liquor in our town?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, then, I cannot sell you any goods."

He could not get mail at the postoffice for anyone but himself without a written order. He cursed and raved but soon closed his saloon and went into a better business than that of making drunkards, and is now an honest citizen.

Another man opened a saloon there and the people treated him the same way. His place was soon closed, and probably there never will be another attempt to open a saloon in B., for law or no law, no saloon-keeper can live under such pressure. M. M. HARDY.

WHEN WE WERE CHILDREN.

Have you forgotten, little wife,
Our faroff childhood's golden life,
Our splendid castles on the sands,
The boat I made with my own hands,

The rain that caught us in the wood,
The cakes we had when we were good,
The doll I broke and made you cry,
When we were children, you and I?

Have you forgotten, little wife,
The dawning of that other life,
The strange new light the whole world wore
When I fe love's perfect blossom bore,

The dreams we had, the songs we made,
The sunshine and the woven shade,
The tears of many a sad goodby,
When we were parted, you and I?

Ah, nay! Your loving heart, I know,
Remembers still the long ago.
It is the light of childhood's days
That shines through all your winning ways.

God grant we ne'er forget our youth,
Its innocence and faith and truth;
The smiles, the tears and hopes gone by,
When we were children, you and I.

—Frederick E. Weatherly in Cassell's Magazine.

A BORDER HEROINE.

BY CHARLES B. LEWIS.

We of Custer's command were swinging around to reopen the overland trail, every station of which in western Kansas had been captured by the Indians. We had gone into camp one night after a continuous ride of nearly 100 miles, and everybody but the sentinels was fast asleep, when there came riding in from the northwest a girl, 18 years old, named Mary Thompson. She was riding a pony without saddle or bridle, and she was hatless and without shoes. Most of the men had been aroused, and were anxious to hear her story before she reached the general's tent. Her report was terse and to the point. Ten miles to the northwest was a party of pioneers—8 wagons, 20 men and 40 women and children. The camp had been attacked by Indians an hour before, and the girl had mounted her pony, dashed through the lines and galloped in search of aid. She had been followed for the first three or four miles by mounted Indians, but had distanced them.

Custer interrogated her concerning the situation of the camp and the strength of the Indians, and, believing the pioneers could hold their own through the night, the men were ordered back to their blankets. It was about an hour before daylight when we moved, the girl riding at the head of the column with the general and two or three scouts, and we were within half a mile of the camp when the darkness faded away and gave us a view of the situation. Then it was a swift dash at the hostiles, a sharp fight for ten minutes, and we had sent the band scurrying away.

In and about the wagons lay six dead and four wounded men—ten dead or wounded women and children. Every horse and mule was disabled, and had we waited a quarter of an hour longer the Indians would have "rushed" and carried the camp and wiped out every soul. At midnight they had cut off two of the outer wagons for a moment and made captive a boy 10 years old—Mary Thompson's own brother. Her father and mother were among the dead, her brother carried away by the warriors as they fled before us. The soldiers and pioneers crowded about the girl and gave her words of sympathy, and for a few minutes she hid away in one of the wagons to be alone with her grief. When she reappeared, her tears had vanished, and she announced her resolution to make an effort to recover her captive brother. General Custer advised and argued with her, but she refused to go back to a point of safety with the surviving pioneers. She did not ask to go with the command, but intended to depend upon herself alone. I think she would have been forced to go away with the pioneers had she remained with us a few minutes longer. While the people were making ready for a start the rank and file learned of her determination. We outfitted her pony, handed her over a winchester rifle and a revolver and plenty of ammunition, supplied her with food for several days, and nothing was lacking when she rode out of camp in the direction the Indians had taken.

Knowing that her brother Jimmie would be sent to some village among the hills to be held captive, she gave all her attention to dodging war parties and hunting out villages. On the old maps of Kansas there used to be a creek called Thompson creek, and it was named after the girl. One morning after a night spent in riding over the plains she entered a grove of willows and cottonwoods on a little island in the middle of the stream to lie up for the day.

About 10 o'clock in the forenoon an Indian band numbering about 20 old men, women and children came along and made their camp on the east bank of the stream and within pistol shot of the hiding girl. Among the boys she saw her brother for the first time. He had been clothed in Indian dress, but she identified him at once. He was among the score of lads sent across to the grove to cut lodge poles and firewood, and the girl planned a feat which the most daring scout would have hesitated to attempt. It was to carry the boy off in the face of the village, and it was not her fault that she made a failure of it. He was one of the first to reach the island, and she rode boldly out of shelter and called him by name and moved toward him. He was so surprised at sight of her that he ran away. She overtook him and seized and tried to lift him on to the saddle, but he broke away from her and the Indians sounded the alarm. As many as a score of old men and boys mounted ponies and attempted to capture Miss Thompson, but after wounding two and being chased for five miles she made her escape. She did not go far, however. Having located the village in which the boy was held, she determined to hang about until her mission was accomplished.

The mound known as Thompson's Fort was also named after Mary Thompson. Her stock of ammunition had been reduced to nine cartridges when she met a scouting party of cavalry and was supplied with 100 rounds and as much provisions as she would take. She had then been dogging the Indians for over two months and had donned male attire as the handiest to get about in. There were Indians on the trail of the scouting party, and an hour after Mary had gone her way she found 12 mounted warriors in sight behind her. This was at 10 o'clock in the morning and on the open plains. She headed for the faraway hills to the west, and for the first hour permitted the Indians to gain on her. When they had come within half a mile she set the pace to hold them there, and made one of the greatest rides recorded under like circumstances. Her horse was in prime condition, and the ponies were also at their best. The Indians knew whom they were after and determined to capture her alive and unhurt.

The race and pursuit lasted for 60 miles, every rod of which was covered at a gallop. The girl was riding straight into the enemy's country, and at sundown she determined to go no farther. As she reached the creek flowing around the east base of "Thompson's fort," which is a hill standing by itself, she threw herself off her horse and took a long drink and then led the animal to the crest of the hill. Fortunately for her there was a sink or basin at the top, with many loose rocks lying about, and in a short time she had done all that a soldier could have accomplished under the circumstances. As the Indians came up they spread out to encircle the hill. They had run their victim to earth and were in no hurry to face her rifle.

From dark to dawn the heroine was not disturbed, and she afterward related that she slept fairly well. She had a soldier's canteen full of water, plenty of provisions and ammunition and was not at all dismayed over the situation. When morning came, the Indians demanded her surrender, giving her much praise and promising to escort her to one of their villages unhurt. This they would likely have done, but she did not propose to become a captive while able to give a shot from rifle or revolver. Two hours were consumed by the Indians in trying to negotiate a surrender, and then, finding the girl inflexible, they made their first attack. At a given signal the 12, who were under the command of a subchief named Little Horse, rushed for the crest of the hill. They gained it, but after a fight of two minutes were driven off with the loss of two warriors killed and one wounded. This last was the chief himself. He was shot through the cheek and had the tip of his tongue carried away, and so badly did this interfere with his speech that two years later he drowned himself in despair. So well was the girl intrenched on the crest of the hill that it was deemed unwise to attack her again, and the band sat down to starve her out. For three nights and two days she held the fort, wounding two other Indians and escaping all their bullets, and then the Indians withdrew and left her, and she went her way in peace.

As I saw Mary Thompson when she first set out on her dangerous mission so did I see her when it had been concluded. From May until November she scouted the plains and dodged among the hills alone, her life and liberty in peril, almost every hour in the 24. The village in which her brother was held captive moved many times, but she always located it anew and watched for her opportunity. It came one night with the setting in of winter. There was a blizzard raging when she entered the village, crept from lodge to lodge and finally found her brother asleep between two boys. She woke him up and got him out of the lodge without disturbing the others, and once they had mounted her horse they set off in the direction of a supply camp 60 miles distant. So severe was the storm, however, that after riding ten miles the pair made camp in a ravine until the worst was over. It was 30 hours before the storm ceased, and the Indians soon started out and picked up the trail almost as soon as the pair had taken camp. The snow lay two feet deep on the level, and with the horse carrying double the race would soon have been run. Camped in a similar ravine, ten miles to the west, were three companies of the Seventh cavalry, and we had just broken camp and got into the saddle when Mary Thompson, with her brother on the saddle behind her, came riding down upon us, with the yelling Indians only half a mile away.

Then followed what the eastern philanthropists have been pleased to term "a cold blooded slaughter of unarmed Indians." There were 22 in the band. All were armed, but they came over the ridge and down among us before they knew of our presence. Only three lived to get back to the village.

The Early London Omnibus.

When the queen came to the throne, omnibuses were a new but already popular institution. They were longer, narrower and lower than the present ones and had no seats on the roof. The passengers were carefully shut in by a door at the end, as if to make quite sure of them, once they were captured, till they had paid their fares. On a little round perch behind stood the conductor or "cad," hanging on by a leather loop passed over his arm. Sixpence was the usual bus fare 60 years ago, whether you went from beginning to end of the journey or only a few hundred yards. As there was very little regulation of the street traffic of London in those days, if the bus was filled up at starting it went like a fire engine in order to get in an extra journey, but otherwise it crawled and pottered about till the requisite number was obtained.

Each omnibus was licensed only for a particular route. It paid the stage coach duty of £9 when first started and a shilling a year for keeping the license in force, besides a mileage duty, varying with the number of passengers it would hold, but coming to about threepence per mile on the average.—Gentleman's Magazine.

In this commercial day and generation unless you have a knowledge of Bookkeeping, Business Forms, Commercial Law and other essentials to a successful career.
You say you can't—
Haven't the money necessary to take a complete course in a business office. Well, you needn't worry about that,
We'll fix it for you.
The GAZETTE wants to have the business men of Berkeley in the front rank in every respect. They are a pretty bright and clever class now, but there is always room for improvement. Now we are going to show our interest in a practical manner
The "Gazette" has a number of Certificates
Each calling for a six months' course in a well-known and first-class Business College. It is well known that a six months' course is worth $75, which is a lot of money nowadays. Nevertheless, we can help you if you are willing to help yourself.
Here is the way to secure a Certificate
Go among your friends and secure twenty yearly subscribers to the GAZETTE. Paranthetically it may be remarked that it is not necessary to pay in advance. The money may be paid at the end of every month. The price is 25c per month, $3 per year. This will make a total of $60, or $15 less than the amount you would otherwise pay to the Business College.

THE MINING FAIR

AT

MECHANICS' PAVILION

Saturday, January 29 to Saturday, March 6, 1898

OPEN FROM 2 TO 10:30 P. M.

The 50th anniversary of the discovery of gold in California will be not only fittingly celebrated by its Golden Jubilee, but by one of the grandest and most complete exhibitions of mining and outfitting ever seen in the world. This Fair will possess the merits of originality, instructive and practical features.

There will be a mammoth pictorial and genuine representation of a hydraulic mine in operation; every modern piece of machinery used in all forms of mining in operation; complete display of ores, minerals, and soil formations, and many novel mining experimental features shown for the first time at this Mining Fair.

The natural resources of California will be shown in the big exhibit of the State Board of Trade, and many official and private collections and exhibits of ores and minerals will give added interest to this wonderful Exposition.

The history of our State will be fittingly and graphically outlined by exhibits of relics, curios, photographs, paintings, books, papers, etc., all kindly loaned by societies and individuals. This feature of the Fair is worth special attention, and the management solicits other loans, where possible. The exhibit of the State Mining Board will also prove interesting.

The Klondike Outfitting Department possesses interest beyond the ordinary, for the majority of food products, evaporated fruits, vegetables, and the clothing, cooking utensils, means of transportation, etc., of miners' outfits as shown, are of California, and the moneys expended therefore remain not alone among our manufacturers and artisans, but aid and benefit the farmer and fruit grower. One half of the main floor is given over to this department.

The attractions besides those named are splendid band concerts, both afternoons and evenings, Klondike cooking lectures, free exhibition daily of Edison's Projectoscope, and new animated pictures illustrating Pacific Coast scenes, European views, Eastern moving pictures, Klondike scenes, comical views, with lectures; a Klondike wedding, Cornish miners' wrestling matches, rock drill contests, international cake walks, baby shows, opening civic reception, living pictures, trips through the great underground tunnel, shaft and ore chambers, nationality days, school children's programs, State Press Association day, interior excursion days, in fact the special features and attractions will be new, novel, well carried out, and on a magnificent scale throughout.

The admission has been wisely fixed at the reasonable price of 25 cents; children, 15 cents; and the railways will make special excursion rates. These can be obtained by applying to your station agent. The various counties will make creditable exhibits, and every man, woman, and child in California has an interest in making this Mining Fair a success. The hotels in San Francisco will make specially low Fair rates, and these can be obtained by writing to the Hotel Committee, 31 Post street, also a list of hotels and boarding houses.

Don't forget the dates—Jan. 24th to 28th for Golden Jubilee Celebration and Jan. 29th to March 6th for Mining Fair.

Office, 31 POST STREET, San Francisco.

A Mean Dog.

He was a small boy—not such a very small boy—in an out of town school. He had written a composition. It was upon the subject of dogs. Now the teacher of the school was a man, and he was not popular. He was what the boys called "mean." They disliked him thoroughly, from the tips of his shining shoes to the ends of his pomadour combed hair. In the composition there was a story of a dog. It was the story of a very mean dog, and as the composer of the literary effort came to the last line he read it emphatically and with great distinctness of utterance, and the hearts of all the other small boys in the room, as they listened, quaked, half with delight and half with fear, knowing what was to follow, and gazing, fascinated, at the upright coiffure of the master, as the reader ended, "And that dog was so mean that his hair stood on end."—New York Times.

What Is Style?

The fact that we use the word "style" in speaking of architecture and sculpture, painting and music, dancing, play acting and cricket, that we can apply it to the careful achievements of the housebreaker and the poisoner, and to the spontaneous animal movements of the limbs of man or beast, is the noblest of unconscious tributes to the faculty of letters. Morals, philosophy and æsthetic, mood and conviction, creed and whim, habit, passion and demonstration—what art but the art of literature admits the entrance of all these and guards them from the sickeningness of mortality? All style is gesture, the gesture of the mind and of the soul. Other gestures change and fit; this is the ultimate and enduring revelation of personality.—"Style," by Walter Raleigh.

How Browning Read Political Matter.

I have read the newspapers only through Robert's eyes. He reads them in a room sacred from the foot of woman. And this is not always satisfactory, as whenever Robert falls into a state of disgust with any political party he throws the whole subject over. Every now and then he ignores France altogether, and I, who am more ignorant and more curious, find myself suspended over a hiatus. I ask about Thiers' speech. "Thiers is a rascal," he says. "I make a point of not reading a word of Thiers." M. Prudhon, then? "Prudhon is a nuisance. Who cares for Prudhon?" The president? "The president is an ass not worth thinking of." And so we treat of politics.—Letters of Eliz.

Anthony Milton, Plaintiff
vs
Abelardo Bernal and Peter Moy, Defendants
No. 10,474.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, of the State of California, wherein Anthony Milton is Plaintiff, and Abelardo Bernal and Peter Moy are Defendants upon a judgment rendered the 12th day of November, A. D. 1895 for the sum of sixteen hundred and twenty-two and fifty-hundredths dollars, besides costs and interest, and which said execution is issued upon a deficiency due to said plaintiff from said defendants, upon said judgment, in the sum of seven hundred and forty-three and forty-five hundredths dollars, I have this day levied upon all the right, title, claim and interest of said defendants, Abelardo Bernal and Peter Moy, of, in and to the following described real estate, situate in the County of Alameda, State of California, described as follows, to wit:

Beginning at the Northwest Corner of Plot No. 48 of the Bernal portion of the Rancho El Valle de San Jose, said beginning point being also the Northeast Corner of Plot No. 40 of said portion of said Rancho, and running thence along the line dividing Plot 48 from Plots 43 and 47 of said Rancho, East 49.48 chains to the center of the County Road, leading from Sunol to Pleasanton; thence along said road and along the line dividing Plot No. 48 from Plots numbered 41 and 42, South 8 deg., 30 min., West 1.30 chains, South 14 deg., 30 min., West 10.34 chains, South 3 deg., West 32.25 chains, South 36 deg., West 3.37 chains, South 49 deg., 45 min., West 12 chains, South 61 deg., 40 min., West 6.65 chains, South 51 deg., 30 min., West 3.80 chains to a point on the Southerly line of the 100 foot right of way of the Central Pacific Rail Road; thence along said westerly line of said right of way North 12 deg., West 1.82 chains, North 10 deg., 45 min., West 4.24 chains, North 25 deg., West 1.83 chains, North 31 deg., West 5 chains, North 31 deg., 30 min., West 1 chains, North 29 deg., 45 min., West 2.50 chains, North 22 deg., 45 min., West 2.50 chains, North 15 deg., 15 min., West 3.50 chains, North 6 deg., 45 min., West 1 chain, North 3 deg., 45 min., West 2.51 chains to a stake; thence leaving said right of way, West 12.22 chains to the line dividing plots 48 and 40 of said Rancho; and thence North 40.03 chains to the place of beginning, containing 119.07 acres less 11.47 acres conveyed to the Central Pacific Rail Road Company for a right of way, and also the lot numbered Five (5) upon the Map filed with the Report of Emil Nusbaumer, sole Referee in Partition, in the Superior Court of the County of Alameda in the State of California on the 3rd day of January, 1898, in the action for partition of said above described land pending in said Court and numbered 22162 wherein Rosalio Bernal Felix is Plaintiff and said Abelardo Bernal et al are Defendants.

Public Notice is hereby given that I will on Monday, the 14th day of February A. D. 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day in front of the Broadway entrance of the Court House, of the County of Alameda, in the City of Oakland, sell at Public Auction, for lawful money of the United States, all the right, title, claim and interest of said Defendants, Abelardo Bernal and Peter Moy, or either of them, of in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to raise sufficient money to satisfy said deficiency due upon said judgment, with interest and costs, etc., to the highest and best bidder.

CALVIN B. WHITE, Sheriff.
